ARE WE OVER-EDUCATED?

For some years there has been a suspicion in the minds of many practical men that the youth of the land are being over-educated, or at least taught many things that are of no practical benefit to them in after life. Many parents, feeling the lack of education, have determined to give their children the best that money can procure, with the result that when young men graduate from college, in many instances they seem to be wholly incapacitated from dealing with the practical questions of life.

Would it not be better to give each student a training in some calling or business, aside from the professions, in addition to the regular course?

Much horse sense is to be found in the answers of a Missouri farmer to the questions of the "country life commission," appointed by President Roosevelt, recently made public. He stated that he had a wife and 11 living children, he and his wife being each 52 years old; and that they owned 520 acres of land without any mortgage hanging over their heads. He had himself done well, and his views as to why many of his neighbors had done less well are entitled to consideration.

These views are expressed in terse and vigorous English; they can not always be quoted in full. He states that the farm homes in his neighborhood are not as good as they should be because too many of them are encumbered by mortgages; that the schools do not train boys and girls satisfactorily for life on the farm, because they allow them to get an idea in their heads that city life is better, and that to remedy this practical farming should be taught. To the question whether the farmers and their wives in his neighborhood are satisfactorily organized, he answers: "Oh, there is a little one-horse grange gang in our locality, and every darned one thinks they ought to be a king."

To the question, "Are the renters of farms in your neighborhood making a satisfactory living?" he answered: "No; because they move about so much hunting a better job." To the question, "Is the supply of farm labor in your neighborhood satisfactory?" the answer is: "No; because the people have gone out of the baby business;" and when asked as to the remedy he answers, "Give a pension to every mother who gives birth to seven living boys on American soil."

To the question, "Are the conditions surrounding hired labor on the farm in your neighborhood satisfactory?" he answers: "No; too careless about chicken yards, and the like, and poorly covered wells; in one well on a neighbor's farm I counted seven snakes in the wall of the well, and they used the water daily, his wife dead now and he is looking for another." He ends by stating that the most important single thing to be done for the betterment of country life is "good roads;" but in his answers he shows very clearly that most important of all is the individual education of the man or woman, and the training of children in our schools to work.

RECENT MINING DECISION

IS CONSTRUED

The following letter has been sent out from the land office, regarding the construction to be placed upon a certain mining regulation:

Washington, Dec. 17, 1909.

Sirs—The attention of the department has been called to the last clause of paragraph 41 of the mining regulations, approved March 29, 1909, which provides as follows:

"The vein or lode must be fully described, the description to include a statement as to the kind and character of mineral, the extent thereof, whether ore has been extracted and of what amount and value and such other facts as will support the applicant's allegation that the claim contains a valuable mineral deposit."

It seems that the expression, "the extent thereof" is being construed as meaning that the applicant must affirmatively show by proof of exploration that the vein exists in fact throughout the whole length of the claim.

This construction of the paragraph is erroneous. By the words quoted it was intended to require the claimant to show the existence of a vein in such workings as he relied on to establish a discovery. By the extent of the vein was meant its size and quality as discovered. That being done, the presumption exists that the vein extends on its strike throughout the whole length of the claim as located.

The sole purpose of that part of paragraph 41 quoted was to enable the land department to know, so far as applicant can reasonably show, the definite facts upon which the right to the patent is predicted so as to determine whether a valuable mineral deposit exists in the land claimed.

You will give this as wide publicity as possible, furnishing it to such newspapers in your district as may want to publish it or refer to it as a matter of news. Very respectfully,

FRED DERRITT,
Commissioner.

DECLARE IN FAVOR OF CONSERVATION

The conservation committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution appeals to every member of its organization and all patriotic women to begin the new year with a determination to use all honorable means to support the conservation measures being carried out all over the country.

That is the keynote of what might be called a resume of the first few months work of the conservation committee of the organization, which is composed of members from every state and territory in the union.

Conservation of all of America's resources is the consensus of the sentiment of the governors of sixteen states and territories who were asked to answer the questions, "What is the special need of conservation in your state," and "How many women help."
